

About the IDRJ

The International Diplomatic Review Journal (IDRJ) is a reputable and prestigious journal published by the Centre for Foreign Relations (CFR) in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania. The focus of the journal is in line with one of the Centre's core functions which is to provide Competency Based Education Training (CBET), high quality research and consultancy services in the areas of Diplomacy, Protocol, International Relations and other related areas which are demand-driven, reflective and responsive to the community needs and dignity of Tanzanians.

Focus and Scope

The principal purpose of the journal is to publish scholarly work in a wide range of development issues namely; Great Lakes Region Crisis, Indian Ocean Security, Early Warning System, Local and International Conflict Management, and Post Conflict Reconstruction, Peacekeeping and Peace Building, Diaspora and Remittances for Development, Civil Military Relations, Terrorism and Counter Terrorism, Small Arms and light weapons, Human Security Issues, Human Trafficking and Drug Addiction, Economic, Cultural and Conference Diplomacy, International Investment and Tourism, Across Border Issues, Regional Cooperation, Democracy, Human Rights Issues and Elections, Strategic Negotiations and Mediation Skills, Refugees Issues and Forced Migrations, Diplomatic Communication Skills, Globalizations issues (sovereignty, sea and air space invasion and territorial integrity), Gender issues (human trafficking, refugees, peace building and effects of war), Climate and Food Security, Environment Diplomacy and academics in a variety of fields.

The Journal seeks to enhance the understanding of the social development processes so as to contribute to the planning and implementation of appropriate intervention strategies at different levels. Its goal is to target development projects that are demand oriented and maximize participation of the communities. The journal welcomes the submission of manuscripts that meet the general criteria of significance and academic excellence.

The International Diplomatic Review Journal is envisaged as a peer reviewed journal to enable dissemination and sharing of well researched and analyzed social and economic development issues. The main aim is to disseminate information resulting from the research experience of Social Scientists working in all fields of Diplomacy, Protocol, International Relations and other related areas. It targets at serving local and international institutions working towards solving political, socio-economic and cultural problems and related issues in Tanzania, African and the wider global community.

The International Diplomatic Review Journal is open to both local and international contributors. The journal is produced in English. In the future, abstracts will be produced in both English and Kiswahili.

Publication Frequency

The journal is published twice a year i.e. in June and in December.